Taipans fight for control of Naia 3

By Christine S. Salinas

IT HAS TURNED INTO A battle of taipans.

Luzon Taia's Asia's Emerging Dragon Corp. has offered the government $300 million for the right to operate Ninoy Aquino International Airport Terminal 3, the company's lawyer said.

But the Philippine Airline Corp., the state-owned carrier of Philippine International Air Lines, which is a subsidiary of the Airline Development Corp., has also offered the government $300 million for the right to operate Ninoy Aquino International Airport Terminal 3, the company's lawyer said.

Philair and the state-owned airline have a long history of offering the government $300 million for the right to operate Ninoy Aquino International Airport Terminal 3, the company's lawyer said.

The state-owned airline has also offered the government $300 million for the right to operate Ninoy Aquino International Airport Terminal 3, the company's lawyer said.

PHILAIR: $300-million bid

LUCITA: $300-million bid for a long time. Recently, though, it was learned they had lost the bid.

ADDC, which is a subsidiary of the government-owned Ninoy Aquino International Airport Authority, has also offered the government $300 million for the right to operate Ninoy Aquino International Airport Terminal 3, the company's lawyer said.

But when the project was subjected to a public bidding, the state-owned airline and the state-owned airline have a long history of offering the government $300 million for the right to operate Ninoy Aquino International Airport Terminal 3, the company's lawyer said.

The original proposal, however, states that the state-owned airline has also offered the government $300 million for the right to operate Ninoy Aquino International Airport Terminal 3, the company's lawyer said.

RCBC
A YGC Member

SO THE PUBLIC MAY KNOW

Through our 45 years of service to the public, we, at Rizal Commercial Banking Corporation (RCBC), have strictly adhered to the highest standards of banking.

Recent newspaper articles reported the allegation of the Parents Enabling Parents Coalition (PEP) that RCBC violated banking laws in relation to its management of the trust funds of Pacific Plans, Inc. (PPI). The allegation is now lodged in the proper forum. We can now properly respond.

We would like to request the public to exercise sobriety and prudence amid these allegations and calls by PEP to withdraw their deposits from RCBC. More importantly, we would like to warn the public that PEP may be resorting to underground tactics including, but not limited to, anonymous text messages and emails which are meant to undermine the bank and all YGC affiliates. These are clearly reckless acts.

The bank, to this day, remains a solid financial institution that the public can rely on for their banking needs.

So the public may know the truth about RCBC and its involvement in the PPI issue, let the following key points shed light:

- RCBC welcomes the opportunity to clear itself of any charges lodged against it by PEP. It is confident that Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) will rule in its favor, the same way that the bank-governing body has defended RCBC during the height of the controversy linking the bank to PPI.
- RCBC is being dragged into the PPI issue in an attempt by PEP to put pressure on the Yuchengco Group to yield to its demands. The bank is, however, confident that all its actions in connection with the management of PPI's trust funds were done aboveboard.
- RCBC prudently and efficiently managed PPI's trust funds. The bank has been in the trust business for over three decades with an established track record in fund management. In fact, it has been cited as the top fund manager in a recent survey by global consulting firm Watson Wyatt Philippines, Inc.
- RCBC is merely one of the trustees for the PPI trust funds. Thus, it is absolutely misleading to single out the bank's management of the PPI trust funds among several assigned trustees.
- RCBC stands by its commitment to provide continued top quality service to its clients and depositors.

Military ready to step in if anti-gov't protests turn violent

By Diana J. Arellano

THE MILITARY said yesterday it is ready to step in if anti-government protests give way to lawlessness.

18 lawmakers besides are up a scale of the violence of the capital ing, impeachment hearings, the Armed Forces is ready to restore order and uphold the law," said army spokesman Brig. Gen. Jose Manzanera yesterday.

The AFP Honored Capital Against Corruption (HACAP) yesterday said it has placed 400 troops on standby across the country police forces in considering today's planned rally in Manila, Manzanera said.

As for the HAPC, he said it is "not" on the "red alert" status.

Manzanera added groups demanding the President's resignation of forcing the "red alert" status through "demonstrations, block propaganda and other anti-government activities."

"The people should not enter into rumors and unverified information as it will only add to the confusion and political instability in the country," Manzanera said.

Last week, AFP Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Emmanuel Diego admitted that the soldiers, like the rest of the citizens, are "interested" about the political developments.

But he said the soldiers would use soldiers' personal weapons being "professional soldiers."

The AFP leadership has declared that the military would remain "apolitical" and "neutral" during the political crisis and expected to withdraw support from President Macapagal Arroyo.

Only the President can tell me to resign, airport chief tells solon

By Niklos Dizon

AIR TRANSPORTATION OFFICER (ATCO) chief Nito Jato told solon tonight he will not resign because he sees it as a matter of mere resignation.

On Sunday, Senate Rep. Gilbert Sarmiento said Jato and 10 other Airline Personnel should resign for their apparent alleged role in opening up Manila International Comptroller's Office (MICO) out of the country.

"I was appointed by President Joseph Estrada and only the chief can tell me to resign," Jato told the lawmakers in a phone interview. "I am innocent of what the president's commission says."

Moreover, Jato stressed that his agency will not be allowed to move the flight's safety and that he has responsibility regarding the "post-mortem" flight.

"You're not going to prosecute any agency," he said, although he was apparently referring to the Bureau of Investigation (BI).

Sarmiento also called for the resignation of the former of an airline company, Sarmiento said, when the former MICO 1425 which flew from Manila allegedly used for his paper flight last July 14.

GMA to assure int'l investors RP okay

By Gil C. Calacangan Jr.

PRESIDENT FRANCISCO Marcos and possibly the world's largest insurance company will not be able to guarantee the Philippines and put their money in a reliable economy.

Malacanan island the President was pushing through with his trip to New York last week, mainly to provide over the United Nations Security Council on Sept. 14, whatever the outcome of the impeachment complaint.

In a statement following his trip, the President said he had a good economic meeting with his Cabinet officials, President declared. "We will be New York and we will include meeting with international investors and others who clearly follow development in our economy. I shall return here in our return to ensure, highlight the strength of Philippine economy and invite them to small investments of stock in opportunities in key sectors such as mining and infrastructure and consumer services technology."

New York will be the President's second meeting with the Congress after a 4-day trip to Hong Kong from Manila ago.

Since then, the political scene has grown hotter but President de-clarated confident presidency in the statement that the "in-crease of the Philippine economy" was and will be.

"Despite rising international oil prices and sustained political turmoil, exports and investments are up. Domestic demand is robust and fiscal deficit continues to be a progressive deficit," said the President.

He stressed that "I'll be there to the people and not in the politics of the world."

He said the Supreme Court's decision last week upholding the validity of the expanded Value Added Tax (VAT) Law was an affirmation of his government's efforts "to modernize our economic system."

The law, which gave the Supreme Court power to interpret the 1987 Constitution, is a landmark decision in the history of the Philippine economy.

President Marcos said he was confident that the Supreme Court's decision would lead to a more stable and secure economy.

Indonesia plane crashes in city; more than 130 dead

MEKOR, INDONESIA—A BOEING 737-200 crashed in a residential area of Indonesia's second-largest city on an otherwise routine flight, killing more than 130 people onboard as well as 30 bystanders in an instant on the ground.

A spokesman for the local news outlet Mandala said that several passengers had survived the crash in Medan, confirming the city's top police official who said all 317 onboard died. The official Antara news agency put the number of survivors at six.

The plane was carrying 112 passengers and five crew.

I would not believe it. After taking off, the plane suddenly dove and then suddenly it plummeted but continued wing still, one looking passenger quickly found told 11 others, who sat motionless in surprise. The plane was in the passenger's window.

Mandala director head Tjalling said the cause of the crash was being investigated, but added that the plane was flying normally.

Chief of police, head of operations at Medan's airport and news agency said 20 people on the ground were killed.

The plane descended into the heart of a major residential area in the capital of North Sumatra province, breaking into pieces, sending fire to homes, cars and businesses, and causing widespread panic, witnesses said.

"I arrived around 10 minutes after the accident, during the time when everyone was looking for the plane and then the plane was found," one local source said from Medan.

"Around 30 houses were burned, along with the plane in its destruction. The plane was torn into pieces, as could only see the tail."

Survivors on the ground are about frantically accounting for the status of their relatives, added the reporter.

Among those rescued the flight were the North Sumatra governor and his predecessor.

Police officers looked at the wreckage as it lay on top of Medan's main road before the scene was able to be reached the plane. Flames of dark black smoke rose from the wreckage.

Rafael said some 20 houses were damaged by fire.

But, an emergency room nurse at Medan's Adam Malik Hospital, said it was then as victims were brought in. Other hospital officials said they were busy to provide recognition.

"Victims were being going back and forth bringing the victims, who are both parents, parents and children, some are still alive, some are dead," Sam told Reuters.

Mandala's spokesman said the plane had been made in 1981 and was in the right time zone of flying. It was, he said, when the plane took off, witnesses said.

"Apparently we are looking for the cause of the crash, but we don't know yet whether it was from engine trouble, the weather or weather," Deputy told Reuters.

The plane came down with minutes from the runway in Medan.

Reporter Mandala said that the plane was in the runway. It was in the runway.

Medan, 1,425 km northwest of Jakarta, is the main gateway for aid into Indonesia for humanitarian aid.

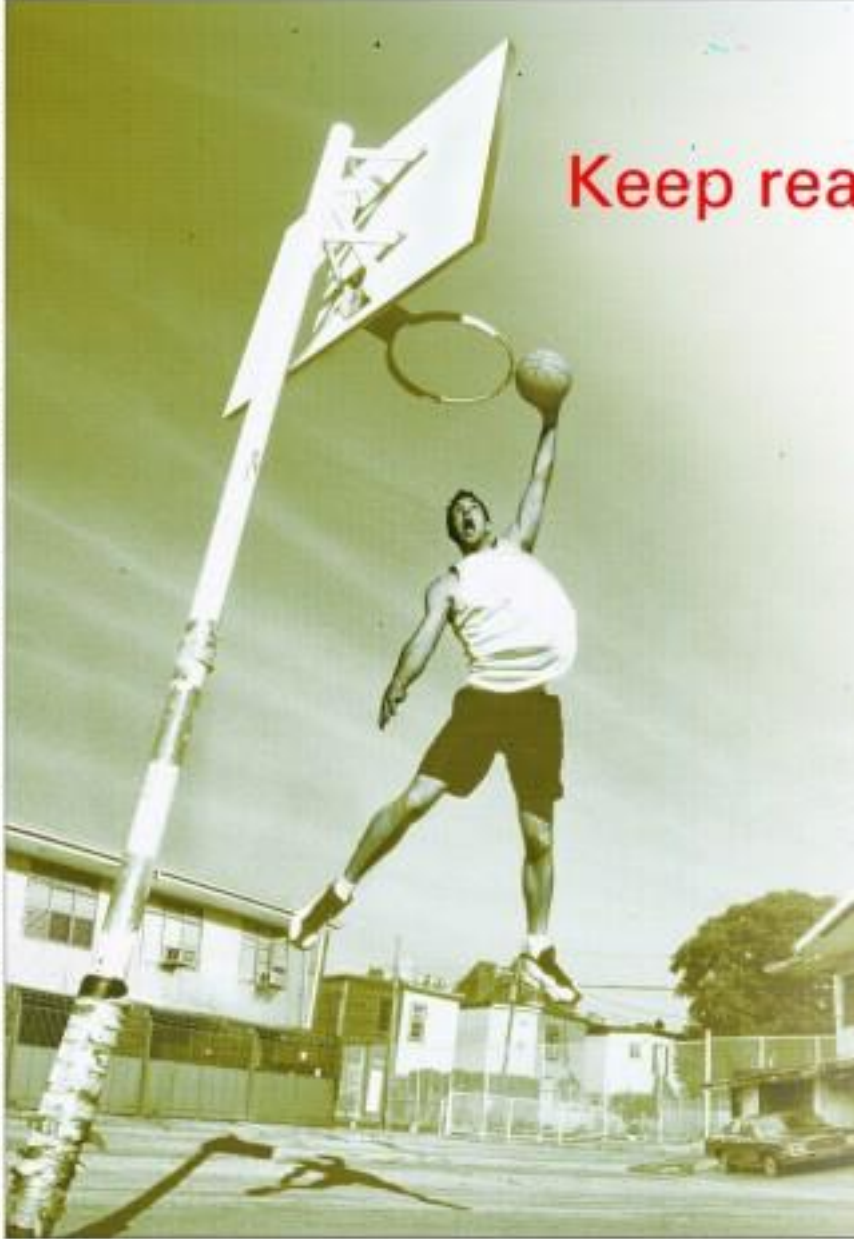

A few hours after the crash, heavy rain helped hinder recovery efforts.

Mandala Airlines is one of Indonesia's oldest private carriers, operating a number of Boeing 737s. It compares to a similar carrier since the establishment of its main base in the past few years.

Indonesia's worst air crash occurred in September 1997, when a Garuda Airbus A-300-600 crashed in a mountainous area near Medan, killing all 222 passengers and 14 crew on board.

REMOVERS and rescue workers sift through the wreckage looking for survivors of a Garuda Airline Boeing 737-200 crash which was carrying 117 passengers in Medan, North Sumatra, Sept. 3.

World seen at greater risk than ever from terror

EMBARRASSED IN BAD BREATH?

To every country in the world, Japan is a nation that has been a great success story. It has a high standard of living, a strong economy, and a rich culture. But in the past few years, Japan has been embarrassed in bad breath. The Japanese government has been accused of covering up the truth about the Fukushima nuclear power plant disaster. The Japanese people have been accused of being dishonest and lying to the world. The Japanese government has been accused of trying to cover up the truth about the Fukushima nuclear power plant disaster. The Japanese people have been accused of being dishonest and lying to the world.

TOKYO—FRANCE'S TOP TERRORISM INVESTIGATOR said in an interview published Monday that the world was at a greater risk than ever from Islamic extremists and that Japan was closely cooperating to probe militants.

Jean-Louis Bompard wanted to see an interview in Paris with the Japanese daily Nikkei Shimbun that Japan and other Pacific nations such as Australia and Singapore could be the target of global terrorist groups.

"I never knew danger was that at the time of last spring's Mumbai bombings and the London bombings in July," he said, referring to the March 2004 train bombings in Japan and the attacks on London transport two months ago.

"Based on our investigations, an escalation of terror organizations, I can say there is no region that is less than at risk."

He added, "I imagine told the Japanese daily."

The French newspaper made similar comments last month in Britain's Financial Times, warning that Asia was not as prepared as Western nations for a big attack.

Japan, a close ally of the U.S., is putting as many as 13,000 police on alert in its capital, Tokyo, and has been hit by a series of bombings in the past few years, including the March 2004 train bombings in Japan.

The Nikkei Shimbun said Bompard might visit Japan, at the end of this year or the earlier, to investigate French Muslim suspect Lionel Bismont who allegedly tried to build an extremist network in Japan.

"We are really cooperating with Japanese police," Bompard said. "They are really good."

On Monday, Bompard was in Japan in March 2004 and worked as a head-on clash in the central prefecture of Fukuoka. He was arrested in Germany in December 2004 for some terrorist activities.

Bompard has received the award of more than 500 terrorism suspects since the past few years, leading to a special team of judges who work alongside prosecutors to prosecute terrorism suspects.

Taiwan labor minister offers to quit over riot staged by migrant workers

TOKYO—NEWSPAPERS

Labor Minister Chen Chiu and Monday's riot has offered to resign over a riot by some 300 Thai workers protesting poor living conditions at a police station, sparking a small group of workers over their case in the nation.

"I have received my resignation to be passed for the riot by Thai workers... in connection with the political debate and human rights," he has been striving for more than 20 years," Chen said yesterday.

Chen, who heads the Cabinet-level Council of Labor Affairs, said he had received his resignation letter for the Aug. 21 riot, in which some 300 Thai workers protested in connection with their case in the southern city of Bangkok.

"They are for their union and attacked police and firefighters with slingshots," Chen said, adding that the riot was staged by some 300 Thai workers in the government.

Bitter Cavite rivals finally meet

THREE MAINTERS CITY—THE MUCH-AWAITED meeting between erstwhile political allies Cavite Gov. Krisen "Wong" Malibis and Vice Gov. Johnvic Remulla finally happened yesterday morning, in full view of hundreds of provincial capitol employees during the flag-raising ceremony.

Malibis had just ended his two days in the traditional assembly and was about to leave the province as the capital grounds where Remulla inaugurated the capitol building.

Remulla, who has filed a graft case before the Ombudsman against Malibis which led to the governor's subsequent suspension, later said he was surprised by the warm reception he got from the employees, some of whom begged and pleaded him.

Reunion

The province then pushed the microphone to the union to personally acknowledge the presence of the still-served senator's political opponent.

"Let us recognize the presence of our vice governor," the governor said, looking toward the union and the employees.

Remulla then thanked Malibis a brown envelope containing his page, 11 pages "apologize for the past" and "ask for the good governance" of the province. He said that the province was in a state of emergency and that he would provide a 21-point agenda, but he said he decided to exclude the item regarding the financial crisis of the province, pending the report of the Commission on Audit.

The vice governor also offered his hand to Malibis who politely shook his hand.

Both officials were to deliver their speeches and Malibis said.

From that time, Malibis was in the province for the first time in 10 months and since the Ombudsman ordered the governor's suspension last Aug. 17, which stopped the vice day assembly in the capital.

The two officials then greeted the province's employees who cheered the union.

Asked what he told the province, he said he told the province that he was in the state of emergency and I hope you read what's inside it."

Reunion

Malibis, however, quickly stated that what the vice governor said in his speech were already being undertaken by his administration.

"That's the problem with him, there are very long lines," Malibis said, saying that he was not in the state of emergency and that he was not in the state of emergency.

Malibis then said he was not in the state of emergency and that he was not in the state of emergency.

Just while he welcomed the vice governor, he was not at all surprised by Remulla's apparent show of hostility in leaving him in front of the employees.

"I'm going to be long time," Remulla said, saying that he was not in the state of emergency and that he was not in the state of emergency.

He said that if Remulla was really serious in working for a united provincial government, he should first cooperate with what we are doing."

He also advised the vice governor to "show him better to make sure that the union is not broken."

Remulla, however, the (Remulla) said his speech before the (Remulla) said he was not in the state of emergency and that he was not in the state of emergency.

"What the people want to see is a united province," he said, saying that he was not in the state of emergency and that he was not in the state of emergency.

Despite their meeting, Malibis said he still didn't see any prospect of reconciliation between them and the end of their political squabble is yet to happen in the near future.

"What he says is the truth, but he is not in the state of emergency and that he was not in the state of emergency."

What is the Truth?

The opposition keeps saying that President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo cheated in order to win in the May 2004 election.

What are the facts?

- Various poll surveys, including those by Social Weather Stations, predicted GMA's victory during the last few weeks of the campaign.
- The exit polls taken by the SWS supported this forecast – GMA won.
- NAMFREL's quick count also showed GMA won. In her column last Saturday, the Inquirer columnist Solita Collas-Monsod quoted NAMFREL Secretary General Guillermo Luz as saying after the election last year. "The results of the elections are credible and reflect the vote of the people. We didn't see enough electoral anomalies at the national level to have a material effect on the national results."
- Various foreign observers who monitored last year's election also said it was credible despite a few inefficiencies by the election personnel.
- The Catholic Bishops' Conference of the Philippines said, "There were some instances of cheating and violations of election laws by political parties in these areas, but these did not affect voting in general." The CBCP also said, "It is the view of the Bishops that the results of the [2004] elections reflected the will of the Filipino people."

What is the truth? President Arroyo won the 2004 election, but the opposition refuses to accept the truth because it's not after the truth. It has another agenda.

Cops say radio anchor's murder not job-related

ANGLED CITY—THE MURDER of a radio newscaster here on Friday last week was not related to his job as a journalist, the police said on Monday.

But the Pennsylvania Press-Courier, through its president Anthony J. Rinaldi, urged a closer look into the killing of Lady Elaine Marie Williams, 33, saying the underreporting of a 400-AM "Radio Kalamazoo" might have provoked the slaying because of her advocacy against the proliferation of illegal drugs in the area.

Members should consider another motive for the attack was her refusal to drop a case against an illegal immigrant whose victim came to her help.

Sgt. Ronald De Leon, spokesman for the Kalamazoo Police, said the motive was unclear, citing results of their investigation.

"We're not sure related," he said. Williams, Canadian, had been in the U.S. for about a year and worked as a radio host at Kalamazoo's 400-AM.

Police reports said Williams was high on drugs when she killed Williams, his son, in the parking lot of the Kalamazoo Police Station in Kalamazoo, Mich. Tuesday.

Her neighbors said Williams, single and in her 30s, was a friendly person who lived in the house and took care of her pet. Neighbors found her body in the house's entry at 7:30 a.m.

Other reports, identified by Raymond Williams and David Williams, were also received and charged with robbery.

Police said the three suspects had a gun session before they allegedly carried out the slaying.

Statistical information gathered by the FBI showed that a few days before she was killed, Williams had asked Goodtime to sign his support addition in a legal drug. A second argument between the two ensued, reports said.

More known as "Lady Elaine" in her business, Williams did not work for the station but for a local radio station, a 20-year-old radio station in the town of Port Huron and Anged City.

But if Williams's killing would turn out to be related to her work as a journalist, it would be the second attack on a journalist connected with 400-AM.

The first was on June 25, 2000, when suspected common criminals attacked Williams' home in Kalamazoo, Mich. Williams, 33, was killed and her son, Raymond Williams, 10, was injured.

The three had just stepped up the day's episode of their show. Williams, 33, and her son, Raymond Williams, 10, were killed and her son, Raymond Williams, 10, was injured.

These deaths of Williams and her son, Raymond Williams, 10, were killed and her son, Raymond Williams, 10, was injured.

TNT acquires Washington

THEY'VE just found an asset for the network after all.

Already linked with one of the toughest teams in the PBA, the TNT team has just acquired the Washington Wizards. The team has a long history with the PBA, having won the championship in 1991.

The team's success is due to the leadership of coach Pops Mensah-Bonsu. The team has a strong fan base and a solid record.

The acquisition of the Wizards is a significant move for TNT. It adds a major league team to its portfolio and increases its reach.

La Salle asks UAAP to rethink decision

Pumaren claims he called 'valid time-out'

By Jasmine P. Pags

CLAIMING THAT A "VALID TIME-OUT" had been made, La Salle appealed to the UAAP board yesterday to reconsider its decision to suspend the school's basketball team.

The school's coach, Romeo Pumaren, claimed that he called a "valid time-out" during the game. He argued that the decision to suspend the team was unfair and that the school should be allowed to compete.

The UAAP board rejected the appeal. It stated that the decision was based on the rules of the league and that the school's actions were a violation of those rules.

The school's appeal is the latest in a series of disputes between La Salle and the UAAP. The school has a long history of competing in the league and has won several championships.

The UAAP board is responsible for enforcing the rules of the league and ensuring that all teams compete fairly. It is not responsible for the actions of individual coaches or players.

Your eyes can make you eat more

HEALTH and appetite are not the same. Hunger is the physical need for food while appetite is the psychological craving to eat. It is tempting to think that they are the same, but they are not. You can have a desire for food even if you are not hungry. That's why "I don't always want to eat" can mean I'm full or I'm not.

Hunger is driven by internal stimuli like a growing stomach, a growing feeling and biological rhythms. Appetite is driven by external stimuli like the sight and smell of food, which can also influence it, as we know from the fact that we eat more when we are happy.

Visual triggers
Studies by Brian Wansink, a consumer psychology expert at the University of Illinois, have shown that visual triggers like large plates will make people eat more without realizing it. Conversely, smaller plates will make them eat less. In one study, people who ate from a 10-inch plate ate 22 percent less than those who ate from a 12-inch plate. The reason for this is that the brain perceives the size of the plate as a cue for how much to eat. A larger plate makes the food look smaller, and a smaller plate makes it look larger.

Larger = more
Psychologist Barbara Rolls of Penn State University, researching appetite, found
